

PERSONAL CASH FLOW ISSUES	YES	NO	LEGAL & BUSINESS FORMATION ISSUES	YES	NO
 Will your personal cash flow needs change as a result of this new business? If so, consider how you will structure your compensation (e.g. salary, distributions) to optimize your net income. Will you need to use personal assets to start the business? If so, consider which accounts will most efficiently fund your initial investment, and how much of your personal net worth you feel comfortable investing in the future. Will your risk tolerance change for your investment and 			 Do you need assistance with deciding the legal structure of the business? If so, consider the following options: A sole proprietorship is the default and simplest structure for a single owner. Business assets and liabilities are not separate from personal. A partnership is a pass-through entity, and is the default and simplest structure for two or more owners. General partners have unlimited personal liability, but in an LP or LLP, limited partners can limit their liability. A C-corporation is a separate legal entity, and is the most formal retirement accounts?			structure offering the strongest protection to owners. As a
Do you need to review your emergency fund to ensure that you have adequate liquidity?			separate taxpayer, business profits are subject to double taxation (corporate and shareholder level).
> Do you need a contingency plan if the business does not grow as expected?			An S-corporation is a corporation that elects to be treated as a pass-through entity, (no double taxation). Eligibility restrictions apply, including limits regarding stock classes (one) and the
> Do you intend for the business to be your sole source of income?			 identity and number of shareholders (100 or fewer, with family aggregation). A Limited Liability Company (LLC) is a separate legal entity that
BUSINESS CASH FLOW ISSUES	YES	NO	shares corporate characteristics (e.g. limited liability), but is unincorporated. An LLC can elect to be taxed as a corporation (S or C), partnership, or disregarded entity.
Do you need to research the amount necessary to launch or run the business? If so, consider the initial costs to start the business (tax and legal fees at formation), and the expected average overhead costs (fixed and variable).			Do you need assistance choosing where to form the business? If so, consider whether there are reasons to look beyond your home state to form your entity (e.g. state-specific legal and tax advantages).
Will you need cash or financing to cover costs until you become profitable? If so, consider the availability of traditional bank loans, government loans or grants, strategies for raising capital from friends, family, and other third-party investors, or funding with your personal assets or debt.			 Will the business have employees? If so, consider the following: Clearly outline employment terms and job descriptions, your duties as an employer, and policies to avoid potential HR issues. You may need to register with state agencies, Workers Compensation Insurance and/or Unemployment Insurance.
Do you expect income to fluctuate based on sales or consulting agreements (as opposed to predictable revenue)? If so, consider opening a line of credit to cover cash flow interruptions and short-term needs.			 Having employees may impact which retirement plan you should implement. See "Should I Set Up A Traditional 401(k) For My Business?" flowchart for details. (continue on next page)

LEGAL & BUSINESS FORMATION ISSUES (CONTINUED)		NO	OTHER ISSUES
 Will you have business partners? If so, implement appropriate business agreements to formalize your relationships and ownership structure, and be sure to discuss the effect of triggering events, such as death, disability, divorce, disaster, or disagreement. Do you need a business succession plan? If so, consider the following: If you have business partners, a Buy-Sell Agreement can set a course for a smooth transfer of ownership. If you are planning to bring your children into the business, include tax-efficient ownership transfer strategies in your annual 			 Do you need busin common risks such business, profession Will your business ensure that all requ and permits are in p provide additional g Will your health in provider and covera employees' needs, i
 bit of the state 			 Do you need to reaction Consider the following Personally, you menovide liquidity for the following
TAX PLANNING ISSUES	YES	NO	maintain the busi If you have a Buy- fund purchase ob
Will your personal tax situation change? If so, consider the following:			If you have key er ensure business of
 Understand how your choice of entity and your operations will affect your exposure to personal tax, self-employment tax, and/or corporate tax. You may be able to deduct certain start-up costs, home office expenses, health insurance costs, and other business expenses, depending upon your circumstances. You may need to begin making quarterly estimated tax payments to avoid underpayment penalties. Will you need assistance in reviewing your business tax return? Will the business have to collect and pay sales tax? If your business sells physical products or even certain services, it may be required to collect and pay sales tax. Do you need help determining if you will be eligible for a 			 > Do you need to reversion with any succession transfer of business updating your Power > Will your business veteran-owned, or business is eligible fatax benefits, grants, > Do you need to ou whether your ultimetransfer to the next liquidation, etc., and

OTHER ISSUES		YES	NO
Do you need business insurance? If so, con common risks such as business interruption, business, professional liability, and data brea	injuries at the
Will your business need a license or permi ensure that all required city, county, state, ar and permits are in place. The Small Business provide additional guidance.	nd federal licenses
Will your health insurance needs change? provider and coverage will best suit your nee employees' needs, if applicable).	I
 > Do you need to reevaluate your life insuration consider the following: Personally, you may need to increase cover provide liquidity for your estate and/or enamaintain the business. If you have a Buy-Sell Agreement, life insurfund purchase obligations. If you have key employees, key person life ensure business continuity in the event of the second secon	rage in order to ible your heirs to ance can be used to insurance can help to
Do you need to review your estate plan? If with any succession planning, directing the m transfer of business interests under your Wil updating your Powers of Attorney.	nanagement and
Will your business be minority-owned, wo veteran-owned, or LGBT-owned? If so, cons business is eligible for and would benefit from tax benefits, grants, loans, business opportune	sider whether your m certification (e.g.
Do you need to outline your exit strategy? whether your ultimate plan involves a merge transfer to the next generation, or sale to a p liquidation, etc., and how this will affect your	r or being acquired, artner/investor/ESOP,

ABOUT US:

Cove Financial Planning is a fiduciary, fee-only Registered Investment Advisor that provides comprehensive financial planning and investment management services with a focus on Socially Responsible Investing (SRI). Cove primarily works with clients virtually across the country. Their mission is to help individuals and families align their financial plan and investments with their future goals as well as their core values.

Cove has been featured in national publications including The New York Times, USA Today, CNBC, Business Insider, Investment News, Financial Planning Magazine, Investor's Business Daily, MarketWatch, NerdWallet and Bustle.

Visit our website for more information or to schedule a free initial consultation call.

Disclosure: Cove Financial Planning is an Investment Advisor registered with the state of Wisconsin. This communication is not intended as an offer or solicitation to buy, hold, or sell any financial instrument or investment advisory service. We do not guarantee the accuracy or completeness of any description of securities, markets, or developments mentioned. The information provided is subject to change without notice.

Ben Smith, CFP®, Founder & Financial Planner

ben@coveplanning.com | 952-807-4060 | www.coveplanning.com